Inspired by a True Story

Some authors base their stories on true events that have happened in their life.

Can you think of an event in your life and write a story about it? If the story is based on true events, you could even add a few made up bits to the story!

